Do we need to protest this contract?

ESA has already determined cage 38450 is not a valid source and has stated to be purchased through PAR PRODUCTS CAGE 1T408 [REDACTED]

P/N 93E1 does not address safety concerns from NAVY.

Drawing was updated in 2008 to 93E1-A.

What about the last [REDACTED] contracts protested for [REDACTED].

The actual [REDACTED] can supply this item if needed in [REDACTED] days or less not [REDACTED] days.

Please review email stream.

Please respond ASAP. This has been going on for months.

Rick,

Please contact the POC for that contract since it is urgent.

If it has the same NSN as contract [REDACTED] it may be corrected when everything is complete since [REDACTED]

CAGE 38450 was awarded. SPE8E9-21-P-0818. P/N 93E1-A.

They are not a source for this item.

Do we need to protest?

This is urgent.

Due to the fact that PAR quoted using updated material ,that all contracts in question should be resolicited using the new ESA approved p/n 93E1-A.

Would this take a protest ?

Spoke with [REDACTED] today.

I need to ask, if ESA agrees that cage 38450 can supply old p/n 93E1, would the NAVY buy them knowing that it is obsolete due to the new upgraded unit 93E1-A.

ESA has agreed to not issue cage 38450 as a source for this new upgraded p/n 93E1-A as cage may be in possession of obsolete drawing but not upgraded drawing to make 93E1-A.

So we can assume even if ESA agrees that cage 38450 can make the obsolete 93E1 that the ESA has already obsoleted,then DLA would be buying obsolete material 93E1 even though 93E1-A is available with NAVY requested upgrades that drawing 93E1 does not include.

Please help me answer with some clarity why DLA is even pursuing buying obsolete material.

We are briefing wit [REDACTED] today.

This item has [REDACTED] lines fo [REDACTED] ea on backorder. Many backorders are over a year old.

There is a solicitation for [REDACTED] under the new part number sole sourced to [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] EA still shows on order, which means end user thinks system is well.

This item is now and always has been sole source [REDACTED] which ESA agrees.

We need to get these into production ASAP.

NSN 4130-01-408-2383.

ESA has obsoleted p/n 93E1 and approved 93E1A that includes safety requirements for both personnel and product.

PAR has asked numerous times if the [REDACTED] contracts for obsolete material have been canceled.

Please let us know who we need to contact for this info.

Is this something we need a FOI request for ?

Your help is greatly appreciated.
